Four Tips for Improving Safety through Collaboration

Research shows that there is a very strong correlation between safety and the level of collaboration you have with your teams. No matter what organizations you are a part of, or what initiative or project you endeavor to complete, collaboration and safety go hand in hand.

This session will share four specific tips for improving your team collaboration. We will use San Francisco International Airport (SFO) as an example of an organization fully committed to both collaboration and safety. We hope the audience will get a deeper understanding of how to collaborate in the interest of safety.

Sue Dyer, MBA, MPF, MDRF is president of OrgMetrics LLC, a partnering facilitation firm dedicated to helping construction organizations and project teams develop collaborative cultures.

Sue has become the thought leader on collaboration in construction. She has worked for over 30 years to perfect the model of structured Collaborative Partnering and her One Team System. Sue has been leading the Partnering Program at SFO for the past 24 years.
